

Angel Healing for Love

Working with angels can help you to open, balance and heal your heart chakra (the energy centre connected to the heart area). This allows you to be more open to receiving unconditional love.

During a time of quiet contemplation or meditation call upon Archangel Chamuel (the angel of love) and Archangel Raphael (the main healing angel); asking them to come close. Place your hands over your heart area and ask them to channel healing there. You may also like to have a rose quartz crystal nearby (or place one near where you sleep); as this crystal is known for healing and balancing the heart chakra and attracting love.

Surrounding yourself with positive images and items which reflect partnerships can also help you to attract unconditional love. Items in pairs and hearts are particularly beneficial in the bedroom. You can also use positive visualisation; seeing yourself in a happy and loving relationship. To reinforce this image say the affirmation 'I am loved; I receive love, I give love and I love myself' every day.

When relaxing before you go to sleep (or in another quiet moment); you may like to ask in your mind, for your guardian angel to lead you to the most suitable partner for you. Avoid being too specific as angels are aware of your soul's wishes and will know who to guide you to. Once you have made this request your angel will be able to help you; otherwise they cannot intervene.

If you are already in a love relationship that you would like to remain in; you can ask your guardian angel to communicate with your partner's angel to strengthen and improve the relationship between you.

There are other ways you may be able to improve existing relationships with the help of angels. Here is one technique to try:

- Ask in your mind for Archangel Michael to come close.
- Ask him to remove any energy cords between you and your partner and replace them with healing light to seal your aura.
- This will leave only the unconditional love and friendship between you.
- It may stop unhealthy traits in the relationship such as possessiveness and jealousy which often originate from past lives you have shared together.
- Removing these cords still allows you to connect on a soul level but in a much healthier and more positive way.

Who knows; if you follow this angel guidance there could be more romance for you in the near future; either with your existing partner or someone that the angels guide you to.

Louise Fowler works with angels to offer guidance and healing. Visit angelcreations.co.uk to find out more about her angel guidance sessions, channelled guardian angel messages, angelic healing art, spiritual events and more. Like Angel Creations on facebook

<http://www.facebook.com/pages/Angel-Creations/218169414919542>